Globalstar Optimum Satellite Availability Tool

Globalstar is continually working to maintain and improve their service. Occasionally, you may experience periods when it takes you longer than expected to connect to the Globalstar system, or your call in progress terminates prematurely. To help you plan your communications, we are providing for your convenience a web-based tool that forecasts satellite availability for your location over the upcoming 24-hour period. Please carefully read the advisory information regarding the Globalstar web-based tool before you use it. Use satellite phone number 863-203-5768 to build the satellite availability report. Go to this link to build a satellite availability report for the area where you plan to use the Globalstar phone.

<https://srt.glpconnect.com:2044/osat/>

NOTE: Globalstar has a few of their satellites that are not functional which is causing a significant number of short service gaps. If you need a phone to make short calls while traveling in the lower 48 U.S. states and southern Canada the Globalstar phone may be acceptable. You may experience periods of no service from 2 to 20 minutes and occasionally longer. The average call duration before dropping is 2 to 10 minutes. The good news is Globalstar is offering unlimited airtime for a flat monthly fee. If this is not acceptable GlobalCom is recommending our Iridium phone.

All sales are final. All warranty repairs are handled by Globalstar. Customer may experience mixed results with using the Globalstar service.
